Everyone's Flower —

THE PANSY

LIKE the lilac and the rose, the Pansy is a flower that everyone recognizes instantly. Whether it is a single blossom gathered from a child's garden or contributes to a prize-winning display at a flower show, the Pansy is part and parcel of our lives. It has the charm of familiarity and is such a friendly thing that its presence in a bouquet of other flowers always brings a smile of delight.

Long ago Pansies had quaint names like Live in Idleness, Cull Me to You and Three Faces in a Hood. Originally they were small, scentless blooms but careful seed selection has brought us the huge modern Pansies in a much wider range of color than the original blue-violet.

Springtime will be even lovelier in your garden if you make full use of Pansies. Finding new places for them is a perennial delight, for they combine beautifully with spring-flowering bulbs and shrubs. Planted in masses by themselves Pansies make a breath-taking picture. Long beds of them bordering walks, along a hedge, or in front of a foundation planting are a sight to remember. Such plantings may be of either solid or mixed colors.

If you set out your Pansy plants in the fall, they will be among the very earliest flowers to appear in your garden in the spring. This means that their velvety blooms are showing at the same time as English daisies, narcissus, tulips and other spring bulbs. So why not take advantage of this fact by combining them with some of these flowers? For example, blue and white Pansies planted alternately as a border for yellow and white narcissus or pink azaleas are delightful, while white Pansies alone are lovely as an underplanting for Virginia bluebells (Mertensia virginica).

Shrubs and hedges with bare lower stems are much more attractive with Pansies covering their nakedness. And besides, the Pansies often can be used to introduce color into these sections of the garden that would otherwise be without it for several weeks to come. Practically any dark, cheerless corner can be made bright and inviting by even a few Pansy plants. They can be tucked in odd nooks and between rocks in a wall or flight of stone steps.

Remember that the best way to keep your Pansy plants blooming is to pick and pick and pick the flowers. Do it every day.

It is hard to imagine anything more charming than a few Pansies in a low bowl. They may be used freely all over the house. At close range their bewitching faces are most appealing and their fragrance will perfume a room. They never fail to bring pleased comment from family and guests.

MIXTURE

Children seem to have an especial fondness for Pansies. Show your young fry how to pick the flowers, and tell them they may do it every day. You will be doing both the plants and the children a kindness.

THIS new strain is a very fine one with huge flowers as its outstanding asset. Customers who bought this mixture when it was first offered last season have been telling us of their pleasure and astonishment at the results. Blooms come in a wide range of variegated colors, from dark purples, reds and blues through pastel tones. Some are blotched, some pencil-striped, but all are beautiful. These enormous, colorful blooms will be a high point in spring gardens where they will make a gorgeous picture for weeks. The long stiff stems make this an excellent cutting strain. Growth is vigorous and foliage heavy.

Pitzonka's PRIZE MIXTURE

If Your Pansy Bed is Pining —

Changing the location of a Pansy bed or adding fresh soil to an old bed often improves it. Fall plantings are most successful. In the northern states late September and October is the best time to plant, in the central states early October through November, and in the extreme South from November 15 on.

If plants that have been set out for several weeks do not look very vigorous, apply a reliable fertilizer with an analysis of 5-10-5 and water it down well. Humus is indispensable, for it aerates the ground and keeps it cool. Occasional cultivation is also helpful. When the ground is frozen hard and a salt hay or straw mulch is put on top of the plants for the winter, be careful not to make the mulch too thick. The plants should still be visible through the covering.

PITZONKA'S PRIZE MIXTURE

Here is your chance to have quantities of those rich, melting colors that you so much admire. In our Prize Mixture we have included the very best of these tones—warm red, pink, brown, yellow, lavender, blue and black, with a large proportion of solid colors and unusual markings. The mixture is kept uniform by selecting a definite proportion of each color and by continual roguing—that is, pulling up and discarding every plant bearing flowers that do not come up to our standards. With a mixture like this, offered at popular prices, it is now possible for every garden to have a satisfying planting of Pansies. This is our all-purpose bedding mixture that is sure to provide a lovely display of these charming flowers.

Regular size plants, $2.50 per 100, $20.00 per 1000, 5000 or more at $18.50 per 1000.

Large size plants, $3.50 per 100, $30.00 per 1000.

One of the nicest things about Pansies is their generosity in blooming. The more you pick, the more you have. When plants get long runners, take some of the foliage with the stems, to encourage new growth.

Pansies are excellent companion plants for any number of spring-flowering bulbs. Here they are used beside double narcissus and hyacinths. The velvety Pansy colors mix with everything. Better effects are to be had if the Pansy plants are massed, so that the countless blends of color may be seen. In this way the plants cover the ground surface and prevent it from baking. In bouquets too, Pansies are easily combined with many other kinds of flowers.

Pick Your Pansies with a Free Hand

There are countless places in your garden that will be made more attractive by Pansies. They are small enough plants to be used in rock gardens, but when planted in masses they make a very spectacular showing indeed. As an underplanting and edging in rose beds they serve a useful purpose, and when set in front of shrubs and hedges they provide early color in the spring that is very welcome.

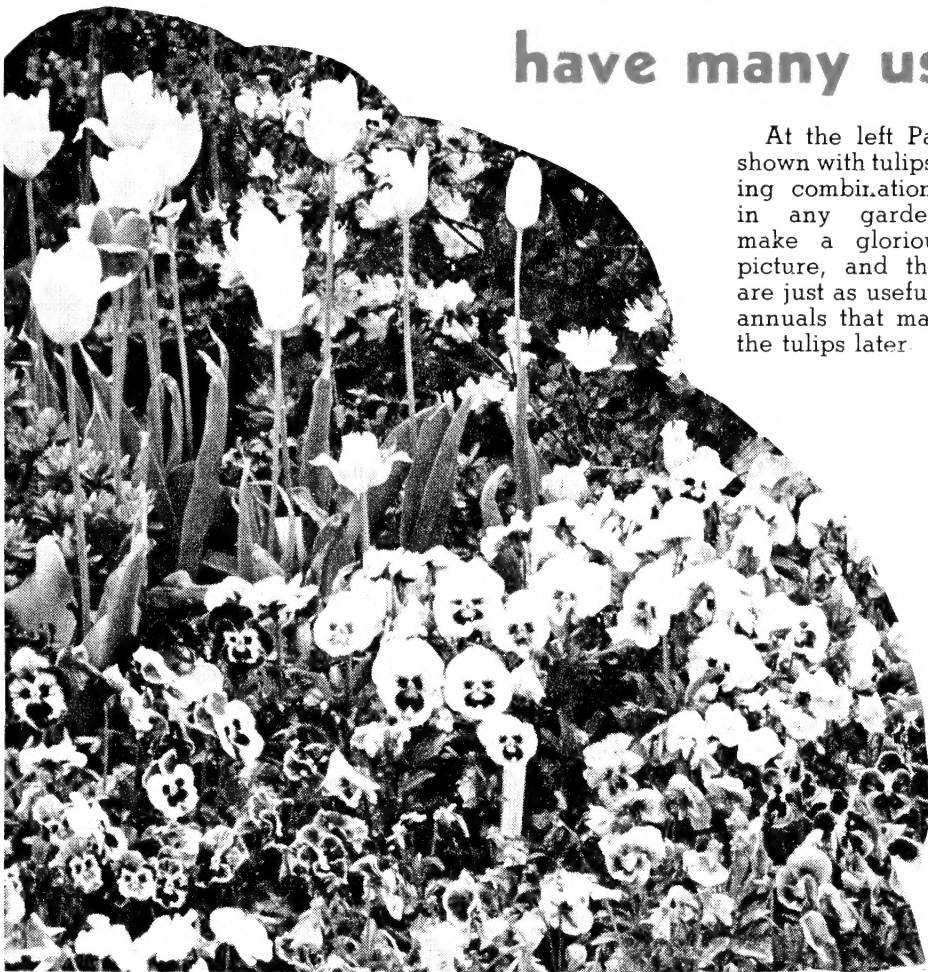

We would like to urge the planting of Pansies in the fall, when spring-blooming bulbs and perennials are being planted. They are very easily combined with bulbs in beds and borders. Fall planting will allow Pansies to become established over winter and to be ready to bloom at the first touch of spring. The shock of spring transplanting, often followed by extremely hot weather, is frequently too much for young plants to stand. Why not try fall planting this year? When your annuals have finished blooming and are ready to be pulled out, put Pansy plants in their place.

Do colors like these remind you of a certain iris—or hyacinth—or tulip? Then why not plant a flower arrangement that will take advantage of similar or contrasting tones? To clever gardeners such a scheme will open a whole new field of interest.

Pansies- have many uses

At the left Pansies are shown with tulips—a pleasing combination possible in any garden. They make a glorious spring picture, and the Pansies are just as useful with any annuals that may replace the tulips later.

Treat yourself to a fresh bunch of Pansies every day. That is the best way to make the plants bloom freely. And be particular about keeping dead flowers picked off.

Pansies in a riot of colors and markings brighten a shrub border in early spring.

Such a mass planting as a border like this will furnish a wealth of beautiful Pansies for the house.

VIOLAS

These little sprites are the parents of the modern Pansy, similar in form and color to the Heartsease that was used in Elizabethan days to make nose-gays.

Violas make up for their lack of size by the fact that they flower more freely in very warm summer weather than Pansies do. They self-sow from year to year.

Tiny Violas are the smallest members of the Pansy family and are welcome wherever they jump up in the garden. Allowed to go their own way, they make a very pleasing carpet under tall shrubs and perennials, and render a real service in shading the ground for such plants as lilies. They help to blend the various units in a perennial border.

Admiration. Beautiful deep violet.

Blue Perfection. A well-formed flower of medium blue with a yellow eye. Very free blooming.

Johnny-Jump-Up. Various combinations of purple, blue and yellow. Colorful all summer.

Arkwright Ruby. Bright rosy crimson with terra-cotta shadings. Very fragrant.

Blue Beauty. A neat, compact grower producing very small, bright blue flowers. Nice in the rock garden and small wall pockets.

Chantreyland. Lovely rounded flowers of rich apricot color, the center sprinkled as if with brick dust. Profuse flowering; spicily fragrant.

King Henry. Purple with a lighter center and dark stripes. The chrome-yellow eye provides a nice contrast. Compact and very free flowering.

STUDY THESE PICTURES

These pictures, though much reduced in size, show the difference between our Large and Regular size plants. The Large ones are older and will bloom more quickly, but the Regular size are produced under the same conditions and will give fine flowers when fully grown.

SIMPLE SUGGESTIONS FOR GROWING PANSIES

1. Choose a well-drained, sunny location (part shade is no obstacle).

2. Any good garden soil will do. Soil must be rich and can be made so by mixing plenty of well-rotted cow manure, sheep manure or rotted compost and an application of commercial fertilizer with an analysis of 5-10-5 through the soil. If possible, allow the bed to stand a few days to several weeks before planting.

3. When the plants are received, pulverize the soil to a depth of 6 inches. Set the plants about 6 inches apart, as deep as they were in the nursery. Water well; shade in midday until well rooted.

4. After the ground is frozen hard, mulch lightly with hay or straw.

5. Give another application of commercial fertilizer, according to directions, when growing weather starts in the spring.

HERBS

These were considered a very necessary part of the garden in olden times. To this day many remedies are concocted from herbs, and most good cooks use them discriminately. If you can manage to have a small herb garden close to the kitchen door, you will no doubt get a lot of pleasure from seeing what you can do with these very useful plants.

AGRIMONY (Agrimonia Eupatoria). An ancient herb reputed to have medicinal qualities, also used as a yellow dye. Not much used now but grown for its name and old-time reputation. Leaves look somewhat like a strawberry; tapering spikes of yellow flowers. 12 to 18 in.

BALM, LEMON (Melissa officinalis). Clean bright green leaves, deliciously scented with lemon. Used as a tea, to flavor other drinks, as a medicine and for fragrance.

CATNIP (Nepeta Cataria). Beloved of cats; also a medicinal plant and used as a tea. Tall, gray foliage. Will grow most anywhere when established.

CHIVE (Allium Schænoprasum). Finely chopped leaves are delicious in salads.

COSTMARY (Chrysanthemum Balsamita tanacetoides). An old-fashioned, sweet-smelling herb with long narrow leaves and sprawling growth. Sometimes used in salads and the dried leaves as a tea.

GERMANDER (Teucrium Chamædris). Glossy green foliage resembling boxwood.

HOARHOUND (Marrubium vulgare). Dried leaves make a tea and remedial candy is made from the fresh leaves.

HYSSOP (Hyssopus officinalis). Leaves used for medicinal purposes and to season vegetables. Attractive in hardy border.

Palestine. Much like the above but a more prostrate grower.

LAVENDER, TRUE (Lavandula officinalis). Dried flowers commonly used for scenting linens and in pot-pourris.

PENNYROYAL (Mentha Pulegium). Tender perennial. Used as a tea, either by itself or combined with lemon verberna.

PEPPERMINT (Mentha piperita). Leaves and tender tops may be infused in cooling drinks.

ROSEMARY (Rosmarinus officinalis). Fragrant leaves scent pot-pourris.

RUE (Ruta graveolens). Bits of the pungent blue-green foliage may be used with discretion to flavor salads or vegetables. May be used as a low clipped border plant for formal beds.

SAGE (Salvia officinalis). Dried leaves season meats, sausages, stuffings, and cheese.

Perhaps you wouldn't think of planting Pansies in a spot like this. They can stand light shade, however, and when massed they are a fine ground cover. Against the leafy background their rich tones are all the more beautiful. Be sure to enrich the soil before setting Pansies in a location where the soil may be thin or where roots of neighboring trees and shrubs will compete for nourishment and moisture.
